Thugs beat friend to death – then went on spending spree using his credit cards

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO men who brutally beat a friend to death and then used his credit card to go on a spending spree across Europe have been jailed for life for his murder after being extradited to the UK.

Rough sleepers Lucasz Siek, 33, and Piotr Jarota, 34, were found guilty at Snaresbrook Crown court last Friday of killing Polish compatriot Franciszek Karol Malinkowski, 55, whose body was discovered in overgrown waste ground between Ermine Road, South Tottenham, and the nearby Barking to Gospel Oak railway line last April 27.

Construction worker Mr Malinkowski, who lived close by in Bramaer Road, South Tottenham, was found to have suffered a broken jaw, multiple rib fractures and blunt-force injuries to his lower limbs.

It was also suspected he had been tortured before his death because of evidence of cuts across his body.

Detectives from the Homicide and Major Crime Command quickly established that witnesses had seen him being threatened and assaulted by two men whom they identified as his friends Jarota and Siek.

Officers also discovered the two had fled to France and into southern Italy. CCTV footage from various banks showed the men using Mr Malinkowski's bank cards in the days before and after he was found dead in around north London before boarding a coach at Victoria to travel to France.

Transactions continued over the next 25 days and they were tracked by officers across southern Europe. European arrest warrants were circulated and both men were arrested in Vibo Valentia, Italy, and extradited to the UK in July 2014.

Siek was jailed for life and told he must service a minimum of 28 years before being considered for release. Jarota was also jailed for life and told he must service a minimum of 26 years before he is considered for release.

Detective Sergeant Mark Richards, of the HMCC, said: "This was brutal murder by two men on an innocent victim motivated by money and greed.

"Despite being constantly on the move through France and Italy, close liaison with European law enforcement allowed us to arrest these men.

"They believed they could freely spend using Mr Malinkowski's bank card across Europe, but it was that spending which ultimately led to their undoing.

"They have shown no remorse for what they have done and hopefully Mr Malinkowski's family have found some closure in this conviction."

On their marks: candidates are all ready to do battle on May 7

THE line-up of wannabe MPs standing for Haringey's two parliamentary seats in the general election on May 7 was revealed last week as nominations closed.

There are eight candidates contesting the Hornsey and Wood Green constituency.

Liberal Democrat Lynne Featherstone is hoping to retain the seat for a third term, having won last time round with a 6,875 vote majority from Labour.

The other candidates are: Catherine West (Labour), Suhail Rahuja (Conservative), Clive Morrison (UKIP), Gordon Peters (Green), Helen Spiby-Vann (Christian People's Alliance), Frank Sweeney (Workers Revolutionary Party) and Geoff Moseley (Hoi Polloi).

Labour's David Lammy will be seeking to retain his seat in the Tottenham constituency for a fourth term, having won in 2010 with a 16,931 vote majority from the Lib Dems.

There are six other hopefuls contesting the seat. They are Turhan Ozen (Liberal Democrats), Stephan Mrozinski (Conservative), Tariq Saeed (UKIP), Dee Searle (Green), Tania Mahmood (The Peace Party) and Jenny Sutton (Trade Union and Socialist Coalition).

Hitmen jailed for failed assassination attempt

A TOTTENHAM gang boss was shot three times outside his home during a failed assassination attempt.

Inan Eren was a key player in the Tottenham Turks, a gang embroiled in a bitter turf war with the Hackney Turks.

He was shot in the arm, leg and stomach before escaping to a nearby convenience store.

Hitman Jamie Marsh-Smith – who went on to kill Mr Eren's cousin Zafer Eren a few months later – hired two other men to help him, Christopher Annan, 24, from Whetstone and Tyrone Wright, 20, from Leyton, east London.

Annan and Wright were jailed for a total of 29 years after a retrial at the Old Bailey last Wednesday.

The trio lay in wait for Inan Eren on December 30, 2012, as he returned home.

Gunman Marsh-Smith, of no fixed address, fired at Mr Eren but missed, hitting a window and showering Mr Eren's wife with glass.

He moved to within an arm's length of Mr Eren and carried on firing before escaping in a nearby car. Mr Eren ran to a nearby shop, where his wife found him. He was taken to hospital and recovered.

Marsh-Smith, Annan and Wright were not part of either gang but were hired by the Hackney Turks to carry out the attack.

Judge John Bevan said the "medieval turf war" over drugs between the Tottenham Turks, also known as Tottenham Boys, and the Hackney Turks, also known as Bombacilar, had reached "epidemic proportions", with five people killed in nearly 30 clashes since 2009.

Marsh-Smith, 23 – nicknamed Freddy after the Nightmare on Elm Street horror film character – shot dead Zafer Eren outside his home, in Southgate, in April 2013. He was jailed for a minimum of 38 years in July last year for the murder of Zafer Eren, the attempted attack on Inan Eren and a botched attempt to kill his own getaway driver.

Speaking after last week's sentencing, Detective Chief Inspector Noel McHugh, the senior investigating officer from the Homicide and Serious Crime Command, said: "Annan and Wright conspired with Marsh-Smith and accepted a contract on Inan's life, the sad reality being they wouldn't even have been paid much money for their part in the attempt to murder him.

"They were motivated by money and had no dispute with their victim.

"These are professional and dangerous criminals, but through extensive and painstaking detective work we were able to piece together the evidence that has resulted in them being sent to prison for lengthy sentences.

"The convictions of Annan and Wright mean that the dangerous and violent criminal syndicate they were part of has now been sentenced to more than 119 years in prison."

Mobile library under threat

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

HOUSEBOUND residents could lose their access to books if the council acts on a proposal to axe the borough's mobile library service.

In the draft library development strategy, officers have summarised findings from the consultation that took place between November last year and February 2015. Now councillors will have to decide where the axe should fall.

One of the options detailed in the report involves "bringing to an end the mobile library service and explore providing an expanded, volunteer-led home delivery service for the homebound".

Alongside axing mobile libraries four libraries – Enfield Town, Palmers Green, Edmonton Green and Ordsall Road, in Enfield Lock – would be retained under the banner of "flagship libraries" with seven day a week access.

The remaining, smaller libraries would be removed from local authority control and given "community library" status and would be run by groups or volunteers, rather than the council.

Officers say that results from the consultation process showed "general support" for "community libraries" and add that they [the officers] should be given the go-ahead to start talks with volunteers and organisations who could take over the majority of smaller libraries.

The second proposal involves keeping the four flagship libraries and sparing Oakwood and Ponders End libraries from closure, leaving the six under council control.

Jeff Rodin, a member of the Enfield Alliance Against the Cuts steering group, said that the cuts would be felt most in poorer parts of the community.

"Libraries are increasingly not used by a lot of people who, if they want to read, just buy a book on Amazon or download it on to their kindles," Mr Rodin told the Advertiser. "These are the kinds of people who have computers in their homes, they don't need internet access or printers."

"The people who will suffer in this are the young people dependent on free

Hunt for suspect after stabbing in street

POLICE are appealing for information after a man was stabbed in the street over the weekend.

Officers arrived on the scene in Parsonage Lane, Enfield, just before 10am on Saturday after being called to reports of a fight.

They discovered a 22-year-old man with a stab wound to his leg. He was taken by ambulance to a north London hospital with injuries that were not believed to be life-threatening. He was later discharged.

There have been no arrests. Police have described the suspect as a black man in his 30s who was wearing dark clothing. Anyone with any information is asked to call police on 101 or contact Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111.

access to books and learning that only libraries provide, also those who need to use computers and internet facilities. Where are they going to go if there are only a handful of libraries left?"

Mr Rodin added: "People have to think why this happening and there is a very simple answer. The local government grant has been so reduced by central government that the council is being forced to find savings."

The council stressed that no final decision to axe any service had been made or approved.

The cabinet member for education, children's services and protection Ayfer Orhan said: "A decision on the draft libraries strategy will be made by later in the year. Our aim is to continue to provide a superb library service to our residents and we will take into account all the comments made by residents, community groups and interested parties to ensure this happens."

Final approval of a strategy will be the subject of a separate report that will go before the council's cabinet in July.

Marathon man Andrew all set for gruelling challenge

AN Enfield estate agent is running the London Marathon for a charity that has played a huge role in his family's life.

Andrew Ryde, 48, and his wife adopted their child through children's charity Coram in 2012.

Philanthropic sea captain Thomas Coram set up the original Foundling Hospital in 1741 to take in abandoned children.

While preparing for the adoption of his daughter, Andrew found out that his great-grandfather too had been taken in by Coram in the late 1800s.

"We got shivers up the spine," said

Andrew, owner of Chamberlains, in Windmill Hill. "It felt like we had completed the circle and this was clearly meant to be."

Now Andrew is about to take on his first marathon, raising cash for Coram – now based near Great Ormond Street Hospital, in London. He's lost two stone, given up alcohol and raised £1,800 for Coram in the process.

After starting out slowly, he competed in a 10k race within six months before becoming "addicted" to running.

Andrew has been a member of Trent Park Running Club for four years and he praised members for the help he gets with training. "They are so supportive," he added.

Andrew joked that it could be his first and last marathon, but he hopes to take on a big one in his 50th year – Paris, Dublin, New York or Berlin.

"I would love to do another," he said. "But I think my wife might kill me!"

On track: Natalie Shay, 16, travelled to France on Eurostar – busking for commuters along the way

Natalie's a Euro-star!

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

A TEENAGE musician from Arnos Grove was whisked to Paris to entertain travellers on Eurostar after winning a busking competition.

Natalie Shay, 16, performed songs to passengers travelling to France on Wednesday last week after triumphing in the Gigs busking competition, organised by City Hall.

Singer/songwriter Natalie is a pupil at the BRIT School for performing arts and has already picked up several awards for her music.

She played in both the Eurostar departure lounge at St Pancras International station and then in the Paris-bound train as it sped under the Channel towards France.

The former pupil at Ashmole Academy, in Cecil Road, Southgate, said it had been a thrilling experience, despite a 5.30am start.

She explained: "I loved it! There were lots of cameras there, so the atmosphere was great, and people really seemed to like my songs."

"There weren't only French and English passengers, but people of lots of different nationalities, which was exciting."

"I had to busk for votes in the Gigs competition before playing to a panel of judges in the final round."

She also scooped the Undiscovered Talent award at the 2014 London Music Awards and has played at venues including the Roundhouse and the 100 Club in London.

Her debut single, Follow You Home, reached number 15 in the singer/songwriter iTunes top 200 charts. She lists George Ezra and James Bay among her inspirations and says the support of her parents Kou and Rodney has played a key part in her success.

She started at the BRIT School in 2013 and says she feels "inspired and motivated" by her fellow students.

On his marks: Marathon man Andrew Ryde

Ruby takes a stand in fight to preserve libraries

A STUDENT has penned a hard-hitting letter about the future of libraries in Enfield – and her petition calling for them to remain open has attracted 200 signatures from fellow pupils.

Ruby Sampson, 14, said that although plans could see libraries run on a voluntary basis, she did not think it was practical.

She said: "In London people need to work to make a living so have minimal time to volunteer, meaning the success rate of volunteer-run businesses is considerably low, leading to long-term closure."

She described how she used Enfield libraries when she was too young to go to school and still spots parents reading to their children when she visits Oakwood Library, in Bramley Road, now.

Ruby, who lives in Grange Park and goes to Southgate School, in Sussex Way, also pointed out that "some people cannot afford books so libraries give a path to higher confidence in reading, an increased self-esteem and a better ability to read."

The teenager, who volunteers at her school library, also said that politicians were concerned that teenagers were spending too much time on technology,

"leading them to not being able to engage socially". She sent her petition to Tory general election candidate in David Burrows before the dissolution of parliament, when he was still MP for Enfield Southgate, said pensioners made up a high percentage of library users.

"If libraries become inaccessible, the number of people using libraries will decrease, causing more to shut down to shut down through no fault of their own," she said. She added that young people had opinions and felt strongly about the issue as fellow pupils signed the petition.

Drawing a line: Veronica Conti and eight-year-old Hana Aragie paint the proposed crossing in Cedar Court

Drawing inspiration to make the streets safer

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.s

IT'S not every day that you spot people drawing in the streets, but residents of one Edmonton street did just that – and the police joined in.

They used removable eco-friendly spray to draw designs on the street at Cedar Court, just off Church Street, as part of the DIY Streets Edmonton project to make streets more attractive and safer for walkers and cyclists.

Saturday's event was organised by Sustrans, a charity which encourages people to make "healthier, cleaner and cheaper journeys".

Veronica Conti, Sustrans' Edmonton project officer, said the road was closed off and residents drew designs for a proposed crossing in Church Street, near Cedar Court and Haselbury Road.

She said: "We closed the street off to get people out and have some fun and meet the neighbours."

PCSO Mike Pearce joined in the event alongside residents and neighbourhood watch volunteers.

Ms Conti brought along some bollards which had been designed by children to remind passers-by to take care when they are near schools.

The day was one of a series of Lottery-funded events aimed at getting residents involved in improving their streets.

Enfield Council has pledged £300,000 for any changes which get the go-ahead after a statutory consultation later this spring.

Support: London Mayor Boris Johnson visited Enfield North to sing the praises of Conservative Party candidate Nick de Bois

Boris drops in to back de Bois

A DISTINCTIVE shock of blonde hair could be spotted in Enfield last week when Boris Johnson paid a visit to the borough.

The Mayor of London stepped off a train at Turkey Street railway station just after 9am on Wednesday to express his support for Conservative general election candidate for Enfield North Nick de Bois.

Mr de Bois, who is going up against political rivals including Labour's Joan Ryan, his predecessor as MP, is facing a battle to hold on to the seat he won in 2010. Mr Johnson acknowledged that it would be tight, but told the Advertiser why he hoped residents would support Mr de Bois.

He said: "I think we'll be fighting for every vote, but I think Nick is a brilliant MP, a brilliant candidate, and I think it would be a real shame for Enfield to go backwards. You can never count your chickens, but I think he certainly deserves to win and to win well."

"Nick has led a series of outstanding local campaigns for this area. He has led the way in calling for Enfield's Law to combat knife crime. He has been at the forefront of the campaign against gangs, knives and guns and we have seen considerable falls in knife crime in London over the past few years. Nick has been indispensable in bringing that about in this part of the city."

Mr Johnson also praised the Tory candidate's work to bring about rail improvements and to get young people into work and said that Mr de Bois's "passion and dynamism" set him apart.

Key battleground is neck and neck

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

THE battle for control of Enfield North will be one of the most fiercely fought in London.

Nick de Bois, the Conservative candidate, is battling to be re-elected to the seat which he won in the 2010 general election with a majority of 1,692 votes.

Polls carried out by Lord Ashcroft in September last year showed Labour's candidate Joan Ryan was starting to inch ahead of her rival as she was at 44 per cent – ten points ahead of the then incumbent MP Mr de Bois.

That poll showed a relative surge in support for UKIP in the area with backing for the anti-Europe party at 12 per cent – up from just two per cent five years ago.

UKIP's surge in the constituency may surprise some who believe that Mr de Bois's vocal Euroscepticism would have placated potential UKIP voters in Enfield North.

While anti-immigration feeling could be threatening to eat away at his core Conservative vote, Mr de Bois has dedicated energy to campaigning on specific constituency issues including lobbying train companies on their poor record of provision in Enfield, championing the case of Primodos campaigners Chris and Emma Gooch in parliament and lobbying parliament to secure tougher sentences for those caught carrying knives.

His main rival Joan Ryan is trying to regain the seat for Labour after being unseated in the wake of the expenses scandal before the last election in 2010.

She was ordered to pay back more than £5,000 in claimed mortgage payments when it emerged that she had spent money on repairs and decorations at her Enfield home before switching her designated second home to a central London property.

At the time there were no rules in place against doing this. However, the law has since been changed.

Ms Ryan has been campaigning around issues on housing and health and was against the decision of the Royal Free NHS Foundation Trust to evict families living on the site of Chase Farm Hospital, in The Ridgeway, Enfield, to make room for a multi-million-pound redevelopment of the hospital.

She has also raised concerns publicly about the decision of the trust to sell off some of the land in The Ridgeway to fund the building of a more compact hospital.

While the closure of the A&E and maternity services at Chase Farm was a major issue for residents campaigning against the closure, it remains to be seen if people will blame Mr de Bois for his association with David Cameron's pledge to keep the units open, or whether the details of the expenses scandal rankle more.

Also contesting the seat are Cara Jenkinson (Liberal Democrats); Deborah Cairns (UKIP); David Flint (Greens); Joe Simpson (Trade Union and Socialist Coalition); and Yemi Awolola (Christian Peoples Alliance).

ELECTIONS COUNTDOWN

Five contest key marginal

By Julia Gregory
newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

VOTERS have just five candidates to choose between in the Enfield Southgate constituency.

In 2010, they had to decide which of ten candidates got their vote.

The seat is number 22 on Labour's target list and although UK Polling Report describes it as "natural" Conservative territory, voters provided one of the defining moments of the 1997 election when Labour's Stephen Twigg unseated the then Conservative Defence Secretary Michael Portillo.

The Tory candidate this time is former Enfield councillor and solicitor David Burrows, who has served as MP since 2005 when he won 45 per cent of the votes, increasing to 49.2 per cent in the 2010 contest and a majority of 7,626 (17.2 per cent).

Enfield councillor Bambos Charalambous, who represents the Palmers Green ward, is standing for Labour.

He contested the 2010 general election and secured 32.2 per cent of the vote, coming second.

Jean Robertson-Molloy, who has spent 40 years in social work, is standing for the Greens and will be hoping to improve on the 1.4 per cent of the vote her party got last time around.

Former Enfield councillor David Schofield, who used to be a Conservative, is running for UKIP.

He fought Chase ward for UKIP in the council elections in May last year.

In the 2010, general election 1.1 per cent of votes went to UKIP.

Computer programmer Paul Smith is the Liberal Democrat candidate. He got into politics after finding it difficult to find a primary school place for his daughter.

The party took 13.8 per cent of the vote last time.

Carers are 'unsung heroes'

ENFIELD'S carers were described as "unsung heroes of our society" by shadow minister Liz Kendall when she visited the borough last week.

The Labour politician, with responsibility for care and older people, made the comment during a tour of Enfield Carers' Centre on Wednesday when she joined Labour's parliamentary candidate for Enfield North Joan Ryan, who said her party's package of measures would help the nation's 5.4 million family carers.

Ms Ryan said: "I've been a carer myself and think I can be a powerful advocate for them."

"Enfield has about 30,000 carers and they are often vulnerable, so it's a completely false economy not to help them."

"The fantastic service offered by this centre means they have somewhere to turn."

Pamela Burke, chief executive of the centre, in Baker Street, Enfield, told the Advertiser that many carers are suffering, particularly those whose charges have mental health issues.

"There are a growing number of young adult carers too," she said.

"We're working with those aged between 16 and 25, doing things like liaising with colleges and universities about their needs."

"They love the people they're caring for, but they want to live their lives, too."

"Carers are often very resilient people, but they can neglect themselves. Our centre provides them with an outlet."

Talking care: Liz Kendall, shadow minister for care and older people, with Labour's parliamentary candidate for Enfield North Joan Ryan

Six in race to succeed Love

THE race to win the Edmonton seat in the general election may seem to many as though it is a foregone conclusion.

Andy Love had been the MP for the area in the east of the borough since the Labour landslide victory of 1997.

However, earlier this year he announced he would not be standing for re-election in May and triggered a selection race which saw more than 100 hopefuls bid for the chance to be named Labour's candidate.

Grassroots community activist Kate Osamor, a GP practice manager in Palmers Green, was selected by Labour in February.

Speaking to the Advertiser after her selection, she said that the issues she would be taking to residents on doorsteps would centre on those that affect their daily lives, such as employment, housing and health.

Her main opposition is likely to come from from Conservative candidate Gonul Daniels, who was at the forefront of a fight to get more primary school places for children in the south west of the borough and whose election campaign is focusing on her background in education and the Conservatives' record on the economy.

The other candidates in the constituency are Douglas Coker, of Foxwood Green Close, Enfield, who is standing for the Green Party, Lewis Peacock, of Bradwell Mews, Edmonton, who is standing for the Trade Unionist and Socialist Coalition, David Schmitz, of Falkland Road, Hornsey, who is standing for the Liberal Democrats, and Neville Watson, of Roslyn Road, Tottenham, who is standing for UKIP.

Daughter bids to follow mum on to the council

By Ruth McKee

ruth.mckee@nlhnews.co.uk

TWO hopefuls in the race for a seat on the council have insisted that their respective family relations had no bearing on their decisions to stand.

The by-election in Jubilee ward in Edmonton was triggered earlier this month when Rohini Simbodyal, ward councillor and former cabinet member for culture, sport and public health resigned from Enfield Council.

The ward is traditionally a safe Labour seat and the two other councillors in Jubilee are Labour's Bernadette Lappage and Alev Cazimoglu.

Mrs Cazimoglu's daughter Nesil has been selected to stand for Labour in the May 7 by-election – and has dismissed any suggestion that her selection was the result of her mother's position as a councillor.

If elected, it would mean there would be two mother-daughter pairings on the Labour side of the chamber as the Cazimoglus would join Claire Stewart, ward councillor for Southgate Green, and her mother Mary Maguire, who represents Palmers Green.

Miss Cazimoglu, of Woodstock Crescent, Edmonton, told the Advertiser that her decision to run had little to do with her family connections and added: "I have been a member of the Labour Party for 12 years. I joined when I was 14 years old.

"In many ways I grew up in the party and then when I was a student I was very active in the Labour student movement. But also, I really care about Enfield, I live in Jubilee ward and I believe in the importance of local government to people here."

By-election: A council seat in Jubilee ward is also up for grabs on May 7

She added that the Labour selection process had been independent and that ultimately "the voters can decide for themselves on May 7".

Her mother told the Advertiser: "It has been a normal thing for many years for fathers to follow their sons into politics – so why should it not be unusual for daughters to follow their mothers?"

Miss Cazimoglu's Conservative rival in the battle for the vacant seat is Nazim Celebi, the husband of Bush Hill Park ward councillor Erin Celebi.

He was also adamant that his family connections had no bearing on his decision to stand and subsequent selection.

"I am standing because I have five businesses within Enfield," he said. "I have a plumbing shop which I am the director of. This means I know all the local issues around Edmonton.

"I do best in the community. I work with the Turkish Football League in London, with the under-14s, under-16s, and under-21s, as well as running a veterans' league."

If he is elected, the Celebis will join Robert and Elaine Hayward, who are councillors in Southgate and Winchmore Hill wards respectively, as the second married couple on the Tory benches.

One current councillor, who did not want to be named, told the Advertiser that close family connections can "sometimes be a problem".

The councillor said: "I have seen instances where it can sometimes create a conflict of interests, honestly. It can be problematic."

Sharon Downer, of Badderley Close, is standing for UKIP in the by-election, Benjamin Maydon, of Crossway, Bush Hill Park, is the Green Party candidate and Matt McLaren, of Green Lanes, Palmers Green, is standing for the Liberal Democrats.

The by-election will be held on the same day as the general election.

Hitmen jailed for attempted murder

Convicted: Tyrone Wright, Christopher Annan and Jamie Marsh-Smith

By Joe Cooper

joe.cooper@nlhnews.co.uk

A GANG boss was shot three times outside his home during a failed assassination attempt.

Inan Eren was a key player in the Tottenham Turks, a gang embroiled in a bitter turf war with the Hackney Turks.

He was shot in the arm, leg and stomach before escaping to a nearby convenience store.

Hitman Jamie Marsh-Smith – who went on to kill Mr Eren’s cousin Zafer Eren in Southgate a few months later – hired two other men to help him, Christopher Annan, 24, from Whetstone, north London, and Tyrone Wright, 20, from Leyton, east London.

Annan and Wright were jailed for a total of 29 years on Wednesday last week after being found guilty of attempted murder following a retrial at the Old Bailey.

The trio lay in wait for Inan Eren on December 30, 2012, as he returned home to Forest Road.

Gunman Marsh-Smith, of no fixed address, fired at Mr Eren, but missed – hitting a window and showering Mr Eren’s wife with glass.

He moved to within an arm’s length of Mr Eren and carried on firing before escaping in a nearby car. Mr Eren ran to a nearby shop, where his wife found him. He was taken to hospital and recovered.

Marsh-Smith, Annan and Wright were not part of either gang, but were hired by the Hackney Turks to carry out the attack.

Judge John Bevan said the “medieval turf war” over drugs between the Tottenham Turks, also known as Tottenham Boys, and the Hackney Turks, also known as Bombacilar, had reached “epidemic proportions”, with five people killed in nearly 30 clashes since 2009.

Marsh-Smith, 23 – nicknamed Freddy after the Nightmare on Elm Street horror film character – shot dead Zafer Eren outside his home in High Street, Southgate, in April 2013.

He was jailed for a minimum of 38 years in July last year for the murder of Zafer Eren, the attempted attack on Inan Eren and a botched attempt to kill his own getaway driver.

Speaking after sentencing, Detective Chief Inspector Noel McHugh, the senior investigating officer from the Homicide and Serious Crime Command, said: “Annan and Wright conspired with Marsh-Smith and accepted a contract on Inan’s life, the sad reality being they wouldn’t even have been said much money for their part in the attempt to murder him.

“They were motivated by money and had no dispute with their victim.

“These are professional and dangerous criminals, but through extensive and painstaking detective work we were able to piece together the evidence that has resulted in them being sent to prison for lengthy sentences.

Thousands of worshippers gather for church’s Easter celebrations

A GIANT, 12-foot-tall wooden cross heralded a procession through the streets of Edmonton by thousands of worshippers on Friday evening as the St Demetrios Greek Orthodox Church held its Easter celebrations.

Road closures and bus diversions were in operation as the procession snaked its way from the church, in Logan Road, along Monmouth Road and Ranworth Road, before returning to the church, where a mass was held.

Behind the cross and carried on the shoulders of four members of the procession was the Epitaphios, a colourfully decorated floral representation of Christ’s tomb in the story of the Resurrection.

“This year the Greek Orthodox celebrations were

held a week after the traditional Good Friday celebrations of other Christian denominations because that was the first full moon after Palm Sunday,” said Councillor George Savva, a member of the congregation. “At each junction prayers were held for the Queen, for the police, for those in authority and for peace in the world and harmony in the community.”

Among those attending was Enfield’s mayor Ali Bakir.

OPINION

It's a sign of the times, Mr Bond!

I MUST congratulate Chris Bond, Enfield Council's cabinet member for the environment and community safety, for the smart new "You are here" signs that have appeared at all park entrances in Enfield. They even include a blank panel, where opening times can be written, and removed, in felt tip pen.

However, I was dismayed when I saw it that took two parkkeepers to change the stated opening times – one to wipe off the old time with a rag and another to write in the new time with the pen!

Surely a time and motions study is due?

Darkness can spell danger...

I WAS interested to learn from your letters page (April 1) that the street lights are now being set at half their full power. Unlike your correspondent I view this as a sensible economy in these difficult times.

I have just one concern. So often people rush across busy roads, or else cross halfway and wait for a suitable gap to complete their crossing. After dark this is clearly particularly dangerous, especially for people wearing dark clothing – and it is also extremely alarming for motorists. Now that the level of street lighting has been reduced it is so important that people crossing the road should realise that after dark they are all but invisible to drivers.

Chase Farm could end up as little more than a cottage hospital

CHRIS Thompson raises a fair question regarding the future of Chase Farm Hospital, ("Why would Tories spend cash, then close Chase Farm?", Opinion, April 8).

He asked why I'm saying the hospital is under threat. Before the last election, David Cameron and Nick de Bois promised they would not close Chase Farm's A&E and maternity units.

By 2013 a Tory-led government had ripped the heart out of our hospital, axing both of these vital services.

Now they are at it again, talking up the redevelopment of Chase Farm – can we trust what they have to say if they get another five years in power?

The money being invested in the hospital isn't going solely towards the construction of new buildings.

A lot of it will be used to maintain facilities and help to cover the hospital's multi-million-pound deficit.

The "new" buildings will actually be prefabricated pods that will be built off-site and craned in – and could just as easily be craned out. The so-called redevelopment plans will cut the hospital in size by a third.

This will leave Chase Farm as little more than a cottage hospital – very small in comparison to other district general hospitals.

The Highlands wing of the hospital

Concerned: Joan Ryan

is being mothballed and there won't be an intensive care unit on-site, either. If this is a genuine redevelopment, why are even more wings and the beds in them being shut?

On this basis, you cannot rule out that the Tories will make further downgrades to Chase Farm's services over the next five years.

Local residents, including Mr Thompson, need to ask themselves whether they can trust the Tories – a party that broke its pre-election promise to protect Chase Farm's A&E and maternity units and closed three hospitals in Enfield the last time they were in power.

A chance for disabled people to ensure their voices are heard

THE general election on May 7 is a key opportunity for disabled people to make their voices heard at the ballot box.

The next government will be making decisions about everything from whether we get more disabled-friendly homes built to essential support with cooking, washing and getting out and about.

To use your vote you need to make sure you are on the electoral register – you can check this by contacting your local council. There are lots of ways to vote – you can vote at your local polling station, by post, or you can nominate someone to cast your vote for you. The deadline to register to vote is April 20.

Your local council should make sure that disabled people are able to use their vote in person on polling day. There are many ways that they can do this, for example by making sure polling stations are accessible to wheelchair users, providing forms in large-print or taking time to explain the process so that someone can cast their vote.

For more information about voting, please visit leonardcheshire.org/voting and ensure you have a say on the important issues that affect your daily life.

Easier said than done...

It was with great excitement that I read Ruth McKee's article this week and read that ALL patients can book appointments on line ("Watchdog reveals big improvement", Advertiser, April 8).

I have been signed up for online access for more than six months at my GP practice and have never been able to book an appointment.

I have to log in via Patient Access and when I have clicked on "book an appointment" have always received the message "please contact your practice if you wish to book an appointment".

So you can understand the excitement I felt when I read your article.

Of course, I immediately accessed the site to see if I could book an appointment. Wonder of wonders could I do so?

Of course, not! I received the same message. I have to wonder where Healthwatch Enfield gets its information from.

Help at hand for diabetes

I WOULD like to make readers aware of a new helpline that has been launched for parents of children who have Type 1 diabetes.

The Care in School helpline helps parents make sure that their child is receiving the diabetes care they are entitled to at school.

It is really important that children with diabetes manage their diabetes well at school as poor support can put their physical and mental health at great risk and can also prevent them from reaching their full academic potential.

The new helpline is staffed by volunteers who provide information about children's rights and can also provide emotional support at what can be a stressful time for parents.

The helpline is supported by Diabetes UK's national charity partnership with Tesco and follows a recent landmark new law, which means for the first time all schools in England are legally required to provide children with medical conditions such as Type 1 diabetes (and epilepsy and asthma) with the support they need to make the most of their time at school.

As part of its Type 1 diabetes: Make the Grade campaign Diabetes UK has also produced free advice packs for schools to help them implement the new law.

Free information packs are also available for parents and outline what care they should expect in schools. To order free packs, call 0345 123 2399 or visit www.diabetes.org.uk/schools

Roll of honour: Local studies officer John Clark shows off a parchment from the archives while (inset) this glass slide shows World War II air raid damage in Bowes Road, Southgate

50 years of memories...

By Lucy Purdy

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

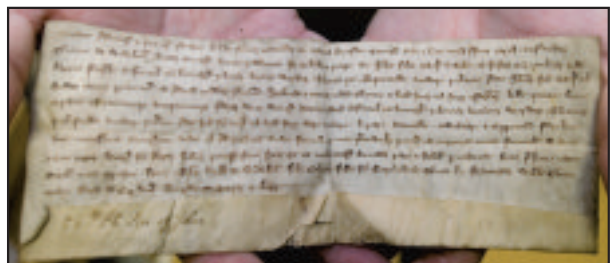

ARCHIVISTS who take care of Enfield's rich collection of historic documents are interested in residents' photos from the past half-century as part of the year-long celebrations to mark the borough's 50th anniversary.

Experts at the Local Studies Library would like to see images of life in the borough it was created in 1965.

The library, housed at Thomas Hardy House, in London Road, Enfield Town, is packed with records from a multitude of organisations, the oldest dating back to the year 1271.

Dusty coloured parchment contains handwriting in what is thought to be a combination of Latin and Old English – a deed agreeing to pay a penny per year to rent a parcel of land in Essex.

John Clark, local studies officer, said: "This comes from the time of Kublai Khan and Marco Polo and is thought to be the oldest thing in Enfield."

Yesterday's papers: The oldest item in the archive is this scrap of parchment which dates back to 1271

The office regularly takes delivery of fresh piles of documents through which John and his colleagues painstakingly trawl through. Everything is "of interest", he says, because it builds up a fuller picture of the borough's past – but they occasionally chance upon records of particular importance.

Mr Clark said: "I found letters a man from Enfield had written to the Admiralty in about 1810.

"He was seeking compensation because he had been fighting Spanish pirates somewhere and been hit by a cannonball."

Another memorable item was a diary from World War I written by a man who was being shelled and in terrible conditions, "but being quite stoic about it", said Mr Clark.

A vestry book from just after the Great Fire of London 1666 details a collection in Enfield to help rebuild St Paul's Cathedral.

Mr Clark added: "I love filling in gaps in history."

We want to hear from you

NHS Enfield Clinical Commissioning Group (CCG) has a vision to ensure the voices of patients and carers are at the heart of our decision making.

Enfield CCG is working with the other 4 CCGs in north central London (Barnet, Camden, Haringey and Islington) to improve the local NHS 111 service. This includes joining-up the NHS 111 service and the GP out of hours services to enable them to work better together.

We are doing it because we want to improve patients' experience of using and accessing urgent care services, making sure they receive the best care, from the best person, in the right place, at the right time.

We will be holding a public engagement event on Tuesday 28 April 2015 as an opportunity to hear from you.

All Enfield residents are invited to come along and share your views and experiences of existing services so that we can work together towards developing the best possible service.

Date: Tuesday 28 April 2015

Time: 18:00-20:00 hrs

Location: Dugdale Centre, Thomas Hardy House, 39 London Road, Enfield EN2 6DS

More information about the proposals can be found on the NHS Enfield CCG website at <http://www.enfieldccg.nhs.uk>

Kung fu fighting: Greg Bullen tackles Adrian Browne at Southgate College

Charity fundraiser sets himself 100-day challenge

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

FOURTEEN days into a charity challenge to try his hand at 100 different sports in the space of 100 days, Greg Bullen shows no sign of flagging.

The 28-year-old has already had a go at swimming, kayaking, lacrosse, ice skating, fencing and netball, among other mainstream sports, together with more obscure recreational pursuits including football tennis and stacking plastic cups in specific sequences in as little time as possible.

The marketing account manager for a retail print company, who lives in Youngmans Close, Enfield, is doing it to raise vital funds for the Stroke Association.

What inspired him to raise money for the charity was what happened to his nan, Nia, who died in 2010 after suffering a devastating stroke 12 years earlier. Before that she had had two mini-strokes.

"She just thought they were 'funny turns' and unfortunately didn't spot the warning signs," said Greg. "Part of my challenge is not just to raise money but also to raise public awareness of these mini-strokes so preventative steps can be taken."

Greg, who is hoping to raise at least £5,000, came up with idea for the sports challenge last year and it has been 12 months in the planning.

"It been something of a logistical nightmare to organise," said Greg. "The criteria is no board games. Other than that it's got to be competitive and a physical activity. I've tried to cover a broad spectrum of sports."

He started to run out of competitive mainstream sports, so among those on his "to do" list before the deadline is up on July 5 are free running over obstacles, paintballing, laser tagging, kabaddi, sumo wrestling, darts and arm wrestling.

This weekend he will be trying his hand at American Football with the London Hornets in Regent's Park and towards the end of his challenge he plans to hold a special school sports day-style event in Trent Park, Oakwood, during which egg and spoon and sack races will be held.

Greg added: "To be honest, I'm not really that into sport. I was quite good at badminton and football when I was younger, but in recent years I've focused on my career. I just thought what could I do to push myself and get off my backside and do something that would make a difference."

Anyone who wants to donate to Greg's cause can visit his online JustGiving page at www.justgiving.com/100sports100days/

By Julia Gregory

newsdesk@nlhnews.co.uk

STUDENTS got switched on to engineering when they were invited to spend three days finding out what goes on behind the scenes at three leading Enfield firms.

A group of 28 GCSE and A-level students from five schools were invited to learn more about engineering and consider it as a career as part of an innovative Focus on Engineering project in Enfield.

The companies said that although they were keen to highlight the career opportunities and plug the national shortage of people in engineering they were delighted with the feedback from students.

Pupils from Winchmore School, in Laburnum Grove, Winchmore Hill; Edmonton County School, in Great Cambridge Road, Edmonton;

Chace Community School, in Churchbury Lane, Enfield; St Anne's Catholic High School for Girls, in Oakthorpe Road, Palmers Green; and

The Latymer School, in Haselbury Road, Edmonton, were given hands-on experience of solving a range of challenges set for them as well as the chance to quiz staff about the science of opportunities of joining an apprenticeship scheme.

At chemical and sustainable technology firm Johnson Matthey, in Jeffreys Road, Brimsdown, they had a go at welding plastic and were challenged to light up the lab by putting together a light bulb holder and picking the appropriate fuse for the bulb.

The firm's corporate social responsibility manager Barry Connelly said that the three-day event during the Easter school holiday tested students commitment and also gave them the chance to find out if engineering might be a career for them as well as chat with current engineering apprentices.

Other companies said that they were keen to get involved in the scheme, which was arranged with support from Enfield Council.

Mr Connelly added: "At the end of the programme after time at three big companies and hands-on experience of engineering and doing the challenges these kids should really decide if they want to go into engineering."

Students also had the chance to learn more about the work at Kelvin Hughes, in Mollison Avenue. The firm designs navigation and surveillance equipment and has moved from Hainault, in Redbridge, east London, to Enfield Lock, where it employs 300 people.

The students looked at a radar work station they would find on a modern ship and got the chance to meet staff including technical publications manager Will Wallis, the

Irish Americans: The Essence of Ireland show is being staged at the Millfield Theatre on Sunday

Hands across the water for an Irish celebration

By Russ Lawrence

russ.lawrence@nlhnews.co.uk

A MUSICAL show embodying Ireland's quintessential qualities is set to get Irish eyes – and those of others not from the Emerald Isle – smiling.

The Essence of Ireland show, at Edmondson's Millfield Theatre on Sunday, is a spectacular theatrical production combining a powerful love story entwined with much-loved Irish songs and dancing.

It makes a refreshing change from the rash of Riverdance-style shows characterised by rows of rigid dancers with hands by their sides, repetitively stomping to what the Irish colloquially call "diddley-aye" music.

Set against a backdrop of Ireland, England and America in the 19th century, it tells the story of the love, joy and heartache of a couple separated from each other and their beloved Ireland by emigration.

Told through narration and spanning a 60-year period, the story moves across to England then America and charts many historical events including America's introduction to rock 'n' roll and John F Kennedy's memorable presidential visit to Ireland in 1963.

Songs include Galway Girl, Isle of Hope, Isle of Tears, Tell Me Ma and Irish Rover, along with an original score.

Young pupils from the Trainor School of Irish Dancing, which holds classes in Enfield, will be performing with the cast.

Ross Mills, director of production and co-writer of the show, said: "The Irish have a cultural identity like no other and that pride in their cultural identity, heritage and traditions manifests itself in the global phenomenon that is St Patrick's Day. The show captures that authentic Irish feeling and celebrates this infectious heritage, which is now shared by all cultures worldwide."

CHILD 44 (15, 137 mins)

ADAPTED from the first novel of Tom Rob Smith's award-winning trilogy, Child 44 is a dense crime thriller steeped in the suspicion and paranoia of the Stalin-era Soviet Union.

Screenwriter Richard Price faces an uphill battle – one he doesn't always win – to condense more than 400 pages of political intrigue and sinewy subplots into a free-flowing narrative that won't distract audiences from their popcorn.

He succeeds in fits and spurts, aided by Swedish director Daniel Espinosa, who energised the Denzel Washington and Ryan Reynolds thriller Safe House and performs some of the same magic here in propulsive action sequences.

Espinosa flexes his muscles in compelling early scenes, recreating a key moment in the Battle of Berlin in 1945 when Soviets raised their flag over the Reichstag building.

War-hardened soldier Leo Demidov (Tom Hardy) is the man wielding the standard, cheered on by best friend Alexei Andreyev (Fares Fares), while cowardly comrade Vasili Nikitin (Joel Kinnaman) watches enviously from the sidelines.

Fast forward eight years and these three men are working side by side as Moscow's secret police under the aegis of Major Kuzmin (Vincent Cassel).

Alexei's young son dies on the train tracks in suspicious circumstances and the grieving father becomes convinced that a murderer is on the loose.

When Leo investigates, Kuzmin shoots him down: "Stalin tells us murder is strictly a capitalist disease."

Soon after, Leo's wife Raisa (Noomi Rapace) is branded a traitor – but the policeman refuses to disown her.

"You should have given me up – that's what wives are for," she coldly informs him before they are banished to the bleak industrial town of Voualsk.

Leo is determined to unmask the boy's murderer and joins forces with local law-maker General Nesterov (Gary Oldman) to disprove Stalin's assertion that there can be no murder in paradise. Meanwhile, the unlikely culprit, a factory worker called Vladimir (Paddy Considine), hunts more unsuspecting victims with impunity.

Based on the real life case of Andrei Chikatilo, the so-called Butcher of Rostov, who was sentenced to death for 52 murders, Child 44 is a slow burn that gets bogged down in exposition.

Some of the cast are more comfortable than others with the thick Russian accents, including a couple of noticeable wobbles.

Hardy is a typically brooding and emotionally conflicted central figure, who is forced to address his own transgressions

Teaming up: Gary Oldman as General Nesterov and Tom Hardy as Leo Demidov

when murderer Vladimir scolds: "Hero, monster – we are both killers, you and I."

The bitter rivalry with Kinnaman's backstabbing compatriot is sketched in broad strokes while Rapace's love interest feels slightly undernourished, too, although she relishes one pivotal scene in which Raisa laments the lack of free will afforded her sex.

Espinosa sustains tension, despite occasional dramatic detours that prolong the running time.

Lettings & Property Management

We are a dynamic Letting and Sales agent based in Finsbury Park who specialise purely in Lettings, Sales and Property Management. We have become experts in the property industry and have just recently appointed a new Lettings Manager who has a wealth of experience for over 20 years in Sales and Lettings specialising in rental properties.

We are determined in getting results and maximum rents especially in the busier spring market.

We are currently offering a fixed fee of 5% for a Let Only Service and 7% for a Fully Managed Service and we also arrange a free gas safety certificate for all new landlords.

We have just started Sales and are Offering 0.5% for all New Sales Instructed to us before June 2015.

At this time of year Property Management is particularly important. As part of the Fully Managed service we conduct regular property inspections and all maintenance issues are handled by us the managing agents.

We feel it's important to communicate regularly with the Landlord when it comes to discussing their property. We also have our own contractors so if repairs do need to be completed in a property, it can be done quickly and efficiently with no added costs from ourselves.

If you are thinking of changing agents because you're not receiving a good service, not getting paid on time and paying over the top fees and feel your property is not getting the exposure it deserves then call us today!

We would be delighted to give you honest advice based on over 20 years of experience in various local markets and work with you to try and get a 'LET' or 'SOLD' board up as soon as possible.

Call John Chrysanthou on 0208 446 9230 or 07957417826 for an informal chat about Letting OR Selling your home or any other property advice you require.

Advertisements offering credit or hire facilities must conform to the Consumer Credit (Advertisements) Regulations 1980.
2. Classified Advertisers offering goods or service of a business, commercial or trade nature will, at the discretion of the Publishers, be deemed 'Trade Advertisers', and as such, must include their names in advertisements. A telephone number is an optional addition to these requirements and not an alternative.
3. To comply with the Business Advertisements (Disclosure) Order 1977, Trade Advertisers must make it clear that they are selling goods in the course of business either by content, format, size or place of the advertisement or by including words such as 'trade', 'dealer', 'agent', 'wholesaler', '(IT)' etc. in the advertisement.
4. The Publishers accept no liability whatsoever for any loss or damage however caused arising out of:
  - (a) Any error, inaccuracy or omission in the printing or publishing of any advertisement;
  - (b) Any failure to publish an advertisement on the day / date or day / dates specified by the advertiser; or
  - (c) Any delay in forwarding or omission to forward replies to box numbers to the Advertiser.
5. The Publishers will endeavour to publish advertisements on the day / date or day / dates specified by the Advertiser but insertion days / dates cannot be guaranteed.
6. Where shrinkage of advertisement occurs for whatever reasons the advertiser will be charged to the nearest full centimetre. This will NOT apply to the full-page advertisements, which remain full pages even after shrinkage.
7. The Publishers reserve the right to reject an advertisement or to vary it in any way they deem fit, at any time before publication, whether or not the advertisement has already been accepted for publication.

10. All rates quoted are subject to VAT at the rate currently in force at the time the advertisement appears.
11. Should the rate for advertisements be altered the price for remaining insertions shall be revised accordingly or the publishers shall have the right to cancel the unexpired portion of the order.
12. The placing of an advertisement order will be deemed an acceptance of these conditions.
13. Account facilities are granted at the discretion of the Company.
14. All accounts must be settled within the terms agreed by the Company and the Customer.

  - (2) Regular monthly accounts that are in breach of the agreed terms will pay an interest rate of 8% above the current bank of England base rate for each month that the account is overdue and discounts or commissions that had been allowed will be reclaimed. Should legal action be required the interest will be charged in accordance with the County Court Act 1984.
15. Where an advertiser instructs / appoints an advertising agent to act on their behalf, the advertiser will remain jointly and severally liable for payment in respect for an advertisement should the appointed agent fail to pay. For the avoidance of doubt, the agent acts for the advertiser and not for the publisher with the agent being responsible for notifying the advertiser of this liability.
16. All queries must be notified, preferably in writing to the accounts department of the publisher within 7 days of the invoice date.
17. All digital services are maintained in partnership with the publishers' hosting service providers. Every effort is made to ensure the continuity of these services, but some occasional technical downtime beyond the publishers control may occur. The publisher and its associated companies shall be under no liability if the production and distribution of web services is delayed or prevented by any cause beyond the control of the publisher.

POOR PERFORMANCE FRUSTRATES CHADLI

By Dominique Stafford

sport.enfield@nlhnews.co.uk

NACER CHADLI admits that Tottenham Hotspur need to improve if they are to avoid their season totally fizzling out in the closing weeks.

Having drawn 0-0 at relegation-threatened Burnley in their previous outing, Spurs produced another hugely disappointing display on Saturday as they slumped to a 1-0 defeat at home to struggling Aston Villa – leaving them seventh in the table, seven points adrift of fourth-placed Manchester City with six games remaining.

Spurs, who had not lost at home in the league since November, offered little attacking threat at any stage – and winger Chadli admits that the side did not deserve to get anything out of the match.

“The problems was that we didn’t create enough chances and we didn’t play well enough to do all the things we need to,” he said. “We knew Aston Villa would fight but we played for the three points too and they fought harder than us.

“We have to improve a lot, we have to get better both in every sector as a team and everybody as individuals to play a better game. This match shows that we are not in good form and we have to respond next week at Newcastle.”

And head coach Mauricio Pochettino is well aware that the side are going through a difficult spell at the moment.

“We are in a very tough moment,” he said. “We’re finding it difficult to score and play well. From the beginning of the game we made it hard for ourselves because we didn’t manage the ball properly.

“Maybe there was a lack of intensity in the first half, we increased that in the second half but it wasn’t enough.

“When you play a team like Aston Villa or Burnley they fight for survival, they increase their levels and are more aggressive. You need to match that aggression and maybe we were one step behind.

“In the last two games it’s been difficult for us, we haven’t scored and we need to push hard and to increase our performance.”

Not good enough: Nacer Chadli admits that Spurs produced a below-par display on Saturday

Saturday’s clash saw American international right-back DeAndre Yedlin, a January arrival from MLS outfit Seattle Sounders, make his debut as a second-half substitute, but he claimed that his delight at taking to the field at White Hart Lane for the first time was overshadowed by his disappointment at the outcome of the contest.

“It was unbelievable to make my debut at the Lane,” he said. “It’s something I’ve looked forward to for a while now, but the circumstances weren’t the best and it was a disappointing loss.

“The only thing going on my head now is the defeat. The debut was great but the loss overshadows everything. It’s disappointing but we have to keep our heads up. We’ll look to come back.”

Skolars claim first victory of the season

JERMAINE COLEMAN claimed his first victory since taking over as head coach of the London Skolars as they enjoyed a comfortable 30-12 triumph at South Wales Scorpions in rugby league’s Kingstone Press Championship One on Sunday.

Coleman replaced Joe Mbu last month following a crushing defeat to Swinton in the Challenge Cup and he oversaw a loss at the hands of Hemel Stags in their opening league clash the previous week.

But Sunday’s match was a different story as the visitors took full advantage of an error-strewn display from the Scorpions to pick up their first points of the season.

James Anthony (two), Tommy Connick, Craig Boot and Harvey Burnett all claimed tries for the Skolars, with Will Fairhurst and Connick converting all five scores between them.

Boot was one of three players – along with Jimmy Morgan and Joel Wicks – who made their debuts for the Skolars in the match after signing for the club last week.

Boot has joined on a month-long loan deal from Newcastle Thunder, while Wicks has arrived on dual registration from the London Broncos and Morgan has signed following a stint at Hemel Stags last year.

Coleman said: “Boot comes from a good pedigree of amateur rugby up in Leeds and has had a very good pre-season in Newcastle. From all accounts he is one of the fittest forwards at the club and he will bring us some toughness in the middle of the pack.

“Joel brings a lot of professionalism as he is full-time at the Broncos. Again, he will bring much-needed grit and guile to the forwards here at the Skolars.”

The London Skolars host Gloucestershire All Golds on Sunday (3pm).

Borough on the brink of securing title

HARINGEY BOROUGH need five more points from their last four games to be crowned Essex Senior League champions after battling to a 1-0 victory at Newham on Saturday.

Darrell Cox scored the only goal of the game from the penalty spot late on to give Borough a crucial three points which brought an end to second-placed Barking’s slim title hopes and means that Bowers and Pitsea – 11 points behind them with one game in hand – are now the only team who can prevent Borough from winning the league.

The visitors looked the more dangerous side throughout but were let down by some wayward finishing – with Lee Allen’s 25-yard shot which hit the bar being the closest they came to breaking the deadlock prior to the interval.

Newham’s only real attacking threat came from set-pieces, and visiting keeper Ashley Harris dealt comfortably with everything that came at him.

But Borough’s bid for victory seemed set to end in frustration until, with only nine minutes remaining, Cox was needlessly pushed in the back in the box when there was little danger.

The referee pointed to the spot and Cox coolly drove the ball low to the keeper’s right to end Newham’s resistance and seal a vital triumph.

Meanwhile, Borough came from behind to claim a 2-1 win at Basildon United on Wednesday last week.

Georgie Smith opened the scoring for Basildon on 35 minutes but the visitors fought back well in the second half and two goals from Cox gave them maximum points.

Haringey Borough visit Clapton tomorrow (7.45pm) before entertaining Bowers and Pitsea on Saturday (3pm).
